

Honors Lecture

3rd Annual

Honors Lecture of the Year

Tuesday, October 12, 2010

7:00pm

ASU Student Union Auditorium

Dr. Ralph Young is Professor of History at Temple University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He is the author of "Dissent in America: Voices That Shaped a Nation" and the founder of weekly campus-wide "teach-ins" at Temple. Dr. Young's writings have appeared in such publications as USA Today Magazine, the History News Network and he has been quoted countless times by news organizations including the Philadelphia Inquirer and WHYY/National Public Radio.

Dissent and protest have been at the heart of the American story from the first days of settlement to present day. "Dissent in America" traces the theme of dissent as it weaves its way through the fabric of American history. Dr. Young's collection of first-hand accounts show how dissenters fought to gain the rights they believed were denied to them, or others, or have disagreed with the government or majority opinion. Through songs, speeches, articles, testimonies, letters, and more, they tell the story of our nation and give us a unique look at the country that America has become.

Event Co-Sponsors

Platinum

ASU Lecture-Concert Series

Gold

The Honors College

The Graduate School

College of Business

College of Communications

College of Humanities & Social Sciences

College of Nursing & Health Professions

College of Sciences & Mathematics

Silver

Dean B. Ellis Library

College of Agriculture & Technology

College of Education

College of Fine Arts

The Honors College Association (HCA)

Student Government Association (SGA) Action Fund

Reception and book signing will follow the lecture.

The ASU Bookstore has "Dissent in America" in stock and will also be selling the book the night of the lecture.